LIVEO RESEARCH INVESTS IN MEDICAL DEVICE FILM

Liveo Research, a leading global film manufacturer, has invested € 10 m to increase its PET film production capacity at the Staufen and Bötzingen film manufacturing facilities in southern Germany. The additional PET capacity will provide medical device packagers with high quality film backed by research and innovation.

Medical device manufacturers and packagers can rely on the latest film production equipment run by knowledgeable and well-trained Liveo manufacturing representatives. Their focus on film quality has made Liveo Research a leader in the industry. In addition, a dedicated Liveo Research medical device team including sales, customer service and product management are always prepared to work with design engineers and customers to provide the right film for today's and tomorrow's demanding medical applications.
